This litter is all very similar in that they are self-assured independent puppies who can entertain themselves and be content. But they have different play personalities when they are engaging with people versus when they are playing with each other. They are very mannerly with people and quite rude with each other. Basic manners training is recommended.

Blue - likes rambunctious play with his siblings. He likes to get the mess started. Moderate energy level. But so sweet when you give him one on one attention. Good with handling. Patient intolerant.

Green - (BP) he will seek out people for affection. He can be rambunctious with his play with his brothers, but is mannerly with people. He very quickly decided that his brothers were too much and he preferred sticking close to people and getting special attention and affection.

Orange - playful and confident. Self assured. Love toys has a mid-level energy. Can entertain himself and be content. Not too pushy or needy. He's the smallest of the boys, but definitely could hold his own. Mid moderate energy level.

Blue dot- likes rambunctious play and can be a little rude with his siblings. Act like the bully of the group, but is very sweet with people. He redirects easily and once corrected for a behavior, settles down nicely. He has a moderate energy level

Green dot - moderate energy level and likes rambunctious play. He loves toys, but will trade them for affection. He settles nicely after busy play and is good with handling.
