

Noodle Temperament Assessments

Date Of Birth 6/28/2024

Noodle Litter Photo Album

7 Week Litter Video

Temperament Test Video

Litter Overview: Noodle Litter

This litter tested very similarly, showing happy, confident, and playful personalities. They prefer human interaction over toys or independent play and don't like being left alone or secluded, so Prep School is recommended to help them become comfortable with being by themselves. All puppies have middle-of-the-road temperaments and mid-moderate energy levels. They are loving, affectionate, happy, and bubbly, making them a great litter overall. No red flags were noted, and all should transition easily to their new homes.

Noodle Blue

- Energy Level: Mid-Moderate
- Personality: Blue has good focus and prefers human interaction over independent play. He does have a slight overbite, which is expected to correct with a little more development. Overall, he is confident and affectionate.

Noodle Pink

- Energy Level: Mid-Moderate
- Personality: Pink also has good focus and checks in often with her humans. She shows a strong desire to please and was comfortable playing alone for short periods. She is affectionate and enjoys staying close.

Noodle Red

- Energy Level: Mid-Moderate
- Personality: Red has excellent focus and is the first to respond to prompts like motion, noise, or getting down on her level. She is confident and affectionate, making her a great candidate for therapy work.

Noodle White

- Energy Level: Mid-Moderate
- Personality: White has good focus but can be slightly uncertain in new situations. However, she adjusts quickly, is gentle, and eager to please. Her affectionate and calm nature makes her a potential candidate for emotional support.

Health Notes:

- Blue has a slight overbite that is expected to correct with further development.

All puppies are well-rounded, affectionate, and show excellent potential for various roles in their new homes.

40

This litter all tested very, very similarly. They came in happy confident and ready to play. They don't like being left alone or secluded so prep school is recommended to get them comfortable with being by themselves.

All have middle of the road temperaments and mid moderate energy levels.

They all prefer human interactions over toys or independent play. It was almost a challenge to video them because they wanted to stay so close instead of going off and playing on their own.

They are all loving and affectionate. Happy and bubbly. Great litter.

No red flags. All should transition easily to new home

Below are the slight differences or noteworthy individual characteristics.

Otherwise, they all acted the same.

Blue - has good focus slight overbite, but expected to correct with a little more development.

Pink - has good focus. Checks in often and wants to please. Was ok playing alone in short spurts.

Red - has good focus. She the first one to respond to prompts (motion, noise, getting down on her level) watch for potential therapy.

White - has good focus. She is slightly uncertain of new situations, but adjust quickly. Gentle and is eager to please.

Watch for potential emotional support.

Health Notes - blue has slight overbite that should correct with a little more development.