Juneau Litter Temperament Overview

The Juneau litter overall is confident and self-assured, although a couple of puppies needed a little time to adjust into new settings. These puppies did adjust very well and on their own. These puppies show little to no stress and new situations around new people are in circumstances typically considered stressful. They react appropriately to new sites and sounds, including those that should be considered startling. They are curious and investigative. These puppies have good memory, focus, and problem-solving abilities average to their stage of development. They have good motivations for interaction, food, and toys at fairly equal and balanced levels. These puppies were socially appropriate in their interactions with one another, with cats, and with other dogs. They are also socially appropriate and their interactions with people they rarely use their mouth and have excellent bite inhibition if they do. They are rarely vocal. These puppies are very consistent with very subtle differences between them. These differences are noted below.
