Mardi Girls Temperament Overview:

The Mardi girls are confident, self-assured, and socially appropriate puppies who adjust well to new situations, people, and environments without stress or hesitation. They are curious, investigative, and react positively to new sights and sounds, even those that might typically be considered startling. These girls display good memory, focus, and problem-solving skills appropriate for their age and developmental stage.

They have balanced motivation for human interaction, food, and toys, making them adaptable to various home types. Their interactions with people, other dogs, and even cats are socially appropriate. While they rarely use their mouths to engage in play, they have excellent bite inhibition when they do. During play, they can be vocal, but it remains manageable and appropriate. The girls are well-balanced with only subtle differences between them. They have no red flags or possessiveness and are excellent candidates for therapy work due to their intuitive and people-oriented nature. Both girls have mid to moderate energy levels, making them versatile companions.
