Delores Litter Temperament Overview

The Delores litter overall needs time to adjust into new situations. Red and orange were very timid and struggled to adjust. The rest of the litter adjusted very well on their own. They show some stress in new situations, around new people, and in circumstances that are typically considered stressful. Orange was the only one that did not adjust on his own. The rest of the litter did adapt and adjust. These puppies are curious and investigative with new sites and sounds, including those that should be considered startling. They all have very good memory, focus, and problem-solving abilities, especially blue. These puppies have very good motivation for food, toys, and interactions. Their motivation for interaction is higher than anything else. They are socially appropriate with their interactions with one another, with cats, and with other dogs, although blue can be a little pushy in his effort to get and keep your attention. They do use their mouth somewhat to initiate interaction, but have excellent bite inhibition. These puppies are rarely vocal. They have no red flags and show no possessiveness. These puppies are very comfortable with handling and restraint. Overall, this litter is very personable and engaging. They are eager and affectionate. They are playful, curious, social and happy. Red was timid to start but did adjust on her own once adjusted. She had mid to moderate energy. She was bubbly, happy, social and playful. Green, blue dot, pink, and white all are very similar in their temperament profile. They are very well balanced. They have mid to moderate energy after a short period of adjustment. They are confident and self assured. They are engaging, playful, and curious. These four should adapt well into most any home environment.
